1. At a meeting of the Politburo of the Slovene Communist Party on 6 December 1947, the General Secretary asserted that the Balkan satellites have agreed to form a single political, economic and military bloc composed of Yugoslavia, Albania, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria. The agreement provides for common security, communications and customs as well as integrated armed forces. This union is to be sponsored chiefly by Edvard Kardelj with Marshal Tito as the leader and Belgrade as the capital.
